Modern photo agency with a long tradition

Are you looking for a re-marketing agency? Are you able to regularly deliver current productions or offer an archive? If so, ullstein bild is the right marketing partner for you. We have been marketing photos successfully for more than 100 years. Our inventory of several million photos continues to grow every day. We are always looking for new photographers and historical archives to expand our portfolio. Would you like to expand your customer base and generate new revenue sources quickly and simply? We are familiar with the photo market and have business relationships with all media customers in the German-speaking region. Our website, my-picturemaxx, and partner agencies abroad make up our distribution channels. We can help you reach customers in the most versatile industries: press and book publishing houses, television channels and film production companies, museums and exhibition organisers, advertising agencies and corporations. Do you work professionally? Are you able to deliver digitally? We look forward to receiving your photos with text in accordance with IPTC standards. We will take over all of the marketing and invoicing tasks for you and distribute a fair share of the proceeds to you.
